Lee, my heart goes out to you and your family in this time of your life. I know exactly what you are going through. You always think you are prepared for the day, until it happens. May God be with you and your's for the Good and Bad days in the future.

Frankie,

We will all miss you terribly, and me especially because of the friendship we had growing up together, working together, going on endless service calls, eating breakfast, lunch, and dinner together, going to parties, meeting girls, living life and learning how to be men. Maybe it meant more to me because I was a couple of years younger. Or maybe because what I got from you was more valuable than what you got from me. I hope not. You're in a better place now, though. Save me a place at the table.
