“ I remember so many great things about Raymond, most of which I can't post here. But there was one time when Jeff, Tweet, and I decided it would be a "good idea" to climb up and knock off one of the round stone balls from a pillar at the entrance to Riverview Cemetery, roll it up the hill to the Tomb of the Unknown soldier, and then set it loose. It gained a LOT of speed going down that steep hill. So we hightailed it across the back of the cemetery. But we couldn't help but to return to the "scene of the crime" later after Louisiana's finest arrived with their lights ablaze. The ball had blasted a 8-10" hole through the latticework under a porch across from the entrance. If this was your house, we are sorry.
