“ I was happy to spend the last three years with my dad. Its the closes we have been since I was 10 years old. All the projects we did to his house was great times even though some of it was hard work. I do wish we could of done more things together like fished or went hunting. I also wish things wouldnt of turned out like they did. Ill never understand how someone could be so spitefull and cold hearted. I remember my dad used to say , everyone will be happy when I die. I know why he said it he was a generous person. He wanted people to not grieve over his death but move on with there lives and live it to the fullest. Try and fix the problems and move on. I knew I could never be happy bout him dying , he was my dad and nobody wants to see there parents die. And nothing in the world could replace him there is no money value on a loved ones life. But it would of been nice to recieve the things he did want people to have and not be told , you dont mean shit to me you dont even need to worry bout no will everything is mine. And its up to me if the grand kids get anything . Its a shame there are people in this world like that. Dad I just want you to know I love you anyway no matter what. Your intentions where what matters and im sorry there is nothing I can do to get you into jefferson barracks so you could recieve the military funeral you earned and deserve. Ill think about you all the time. Rest in piece pop
