“ I was sorry to hear of Irene's death.
In Nov of 1942 my family moved to Stark Addition at 25th and South Carolina. I'm not sure when the Cannons moved there but know they were around either at that time or within a few years. Irene was a year younger so we were in Field School at the same time. My Mom worked and it seemed there was a lot of activity up the block and I was attracted to it. I remember a piano in the front room and it seems that we were always having fun with that. We saw each other often over the years and sometimes we talked about those years. Stark Addition was a fun place to grow up, kind of a combination of town and country living. There was a lot of open space at that time. I'll miss seeing Irene around and talking "old times."
